envisioning today's readers as poised between an impossible attempt to read texts as their original readers experienced them and an awareness of our own temporal moment simon dentith complicates traditional prejudices against hindsight to approach issues of interpretation and historicity in nineteenth century literature suggesting that the characteristic aesthetic attitude encouraged by the backward look is one of irony rather than remorse or regret he examines works by charles dickens george eliot anthony trollope william morris and john ruskin in terms of their participation in significant histories that extend to this day liberalism class gender political representation and notions of progress utopianism and ecological concern as currently understood can be traced back to the nineteenth century just as today's critics strive to respect the authenticity of nineteenth century writers and readers who responded to these ideas within their historical world so too do those nineteenth century imaginings persist to challenge the assumptions of the present it is therefore possible dentith argues to conceive of the act of reading historical literature with an awareness of the historical context and of the difference between the past and the present while allowing that friction or difference to be part of how we think about a text and how it communicates his book summons us to consider how words travel to the reality of the reader's own time and how engagement with nineteenth century writers anticipation of the judgements of future generations reveal hindsight's capacity to transform our understanding of the past in the light of subsequent knowledge while the popular talk of english common sense in the eighteenth century might seem a by product of familiar enlightenment discourses of rationalism and empiricism this book argues that terms such as common sense or good sense are not simply synonyms of applied reason on the contrary the discourse of common sense is shaped by a defensive impulse against the totalizing intellectual regimes of the enlightenment and the cultural climate of change they promote in order to contain the unbounded discursive proliferation of modern learning hence common sense discourse has a vital regulatory function in cultural negotiations of political and intellectual change in eighteenth century britain against the backdrop of patriotic national self concepts this study discusses early eighteenth century common sense in four broad complexes as to its discursive functions that are ethical which at that time implies aesthetic as well transgressive as a corrective political in patriotic constructs of the nation and repressive of otherness the selection of texts in this study strikes a balance between dominant literary culture swift pope defoe fielding johnson and the periphery such as pamphlets and magazine essays satiric poems and patriotic songs tracing the continuities and trends in the complex relationship between literature and science in the long nineteenth century this companion provides scholars with a comprehensive authoritative and up to date foundation for research in this field in intellectual material and social terms the transformation undergone by western culture over the period was unprecedented many of these changes were grounded in the growth of science yet science was not a cultural monolith then any more than it is now and its development was shaped by competing world views to cover the full range of literary engagements with science in the nineteenth century this companion consists of twenty seven chapters by experts in the field which explore crucial social and intellectual contexts for the interactions between literature and science how science affected different genres of writing and the importance of individual scientific disciplines and concepts within literary culture each chapter has its own extensive bibliography the volume as a whole is rounded out with a synoptic introduction by the editors and an afterword by the eminent historian of nineteenth century science bernard lightman
